Dear fellow redeemed in Christ Jesus,

Today, November 1, is a very special day for me. You see, on this day 35 years ago our son, Aaron, was born into this world. He was named after St. Aaron, the brother of Moses. A few weeks after his birth, on Thanksgiving Day, he was baptized into Christ Jesus and sanctified by the Holy Spirit.

Today is All Saints Day, which raises the question: What exactly is a Saint, and just what is it that we celebrate on this holy day? First, it's a time to thankfully remember those of our church members, friends and relatives who have passed away in the last year, who have gone to join the saints in heaven. Second, it is also a day we are invited to reflect on our own 'saintliness,' especially in the light of the life and witness of those who have gone before us in the faith.

We must remember that, as Christians, our family tree is not limited to, nor defined by, our biological connectedness. We are all grafted into God's family tree through baptism; we have all been adopted as children of God and sisters and brothers of Christ through the working of the Holy Spirit in our lives. Therefore, we are related to all the saints—they are our sisters and brothers!

When I reflect upon the lives of "the saints," the ones I've known personally and those I've only heard or read about, I don't feel very saintly myself. I feel like the little boy who was met at the door by the homeowner one Halloween. He was about 4 years old and wore a Superman outfit. He reached out his hand as he said trick or treat. The woman could not resist teasing him a bit, asking, "Where's your bag?" He replied, "My mom's carrying it. It's too heavy for me." The woman smiled and said, "But you're Superman!" He glanced down at the "S" on his chest before whispering, "Not really, these are just pajamas."

We're always aware of falling short, of not measuring up. We are also always aware that the other people in our family of faith seldom measure up either. The Scriptures tell us that because we're Christians, we're also saints, but most of us don't believe it. We look down at the "S" on our chest and then plead with God, "Not really, I'm only human."

This is the great mystery of All Saints Day. We are indeed only human, but we are also "the saints who gather ..." as St. Paul put it in many of his letters. We are, as Martin Luther said, 'saint and sinner at the same time'. Though we don't go around in Christian pajamas with a big haloed "S" on our chest, we do have an invisible cross on our foreheads. It was put there at our baptism with these or similar words: "Child of God, you have been sealed by the Holy Spirit and marked with the cross of Christ forever." Each of us has that mark on our lives, a mark that calls us forward into saintliness. We are invited to constantly live into our name as a child of God, as a baptized saint.

The struggle of the Christian life is to remember that we are all saints in spite of our failures, and to remember that the other people in our church family are saints as well, in spite of their imperfections. As Isaiah said: On this mountain the Lord of hosts will make for all peoples a feast of rich food, a feast of well-aged wines, of rich food filled with marrow, of well-aged wines strained clear (25:6).

Blessed All Saints Day!

A sincere thank you for the many gifts and warm gestures given for Pastor Appreciation. I appreciate you, too! Pastor

SCHOOL/EARLY LEARNING ACADEMY NEWS

From the Chairman

When we were largely farmers we celebrated the harvest at this time of year. We praised God for his hand on our harvest. With our political system though, this time of year has become a time of looking at all the shortcomings of our society and even our churches. We blame our God given leaders and our friends. We look at our lives and not at God's plan. Haggai had this to say to the Israelites as they returned from exile focusing on themselves instead of God's work, His Temple.

Haggai 1:5-11 NIV

<sup>5</sup>Now this is what the Lord Almighty says: "Give careful thought to your ways. <sup>6</sup>You have planted much, but have harvested little. You eat, but never have enough. You drink, but never have your fill. You put on clothes, but are not warm. You earn wages, only to put them in a purse with holes in it." <sup>7</sup>This is what the Lord Almighty says: "Give careful thought to your ways. <sup>8</sup>Go up into the mountains and bring down timber and build the house, so that I may take pleasure in it and be honored," says the Lord. <sup>9</sup>"You expected much, but see, it turned out to be little. What you brought home, I blew away. Why?" declares the Lord Almighty. "Because of my house, which remains a ruin, while each of you is busy with his own house. <sup>10</sup>Therefore, because of you the heavens have withheld their dew and the earth its crops. <sup>11</sup>I called for a drought on the fields and the mountains, on the grain, the new wine, the oil and whatever the ground produces, on men and cattle, and on the labor of your hands."

~ Tom Gaide

KALEIDOSCOPE

This time of year we take account of the bounties that God has shared with us. We consider how we might use those to benefit His plan for us and His church. While it did not have the booming growth of past years with the downturn in the markets, Trinity Lutheran School Endowment Fund benefitted the school again this year. It continues to be managed by the LCMS Foundation so your gifts will continue to support the mission of Trinity Lutheran School. Please consider this vehicle if you are looking for a way to help anchor the faith of children in Christ.
